As each freshman enters Washington, he expands his own imagination and initiative while blending his talents with those of others, forming a true profile of Washington.

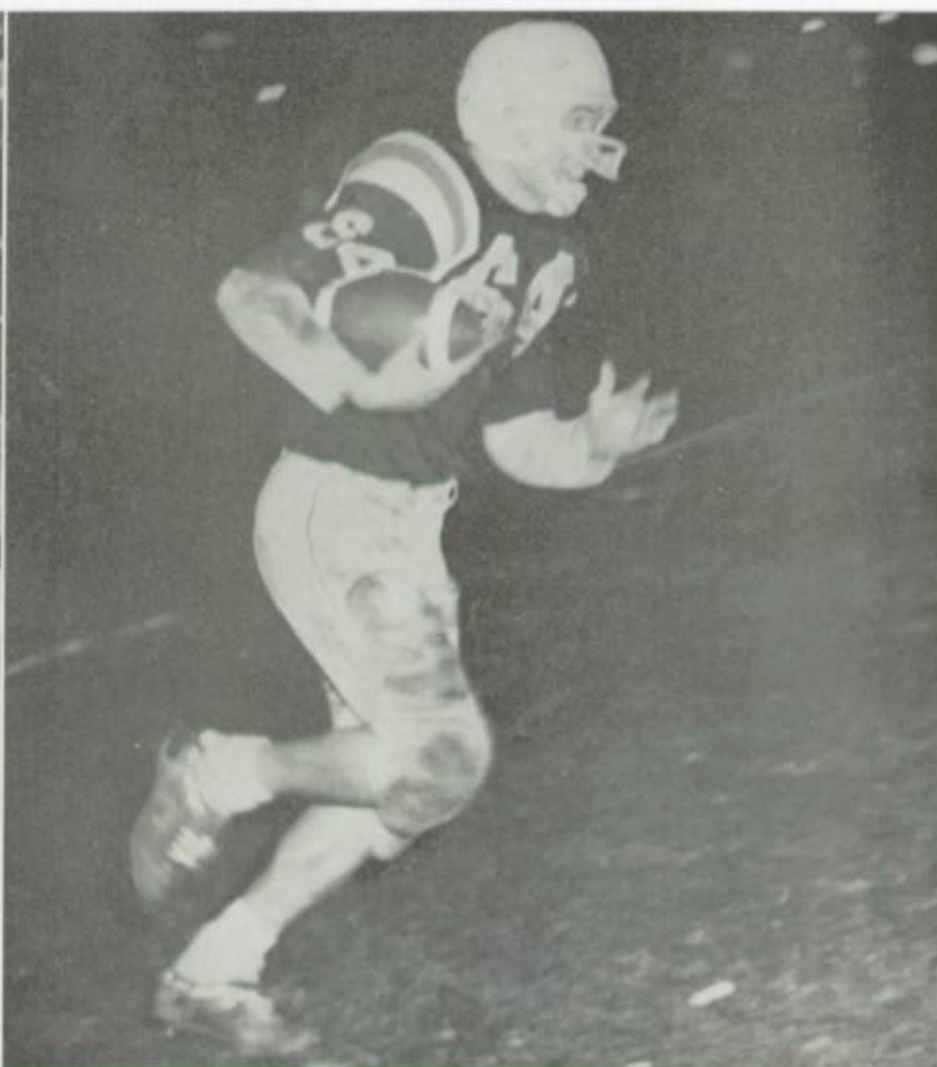

MOVE OVER! Even under crowded conditions, pupils still take time to enjoy the Symphony Orchestra.

Continental profiles reflect progress

PRIZEWINNER? A Continental tests his throwing skill at the Capers.

GO! FIGHT! WIN! Jerry Sanders of the Tofilmen carries the ball toward the goal.

in the making

ALWAYS BUSY! Hurrying to meet an early deadline, News Bureau Chief, Jean Hayes types an assignment.

THIS IS THE WAY. Science award winners Reba Koch, Craig Johnson, and Pat Kira compare notes on their projects before going to a meeting.

Profiles of enthusiasm

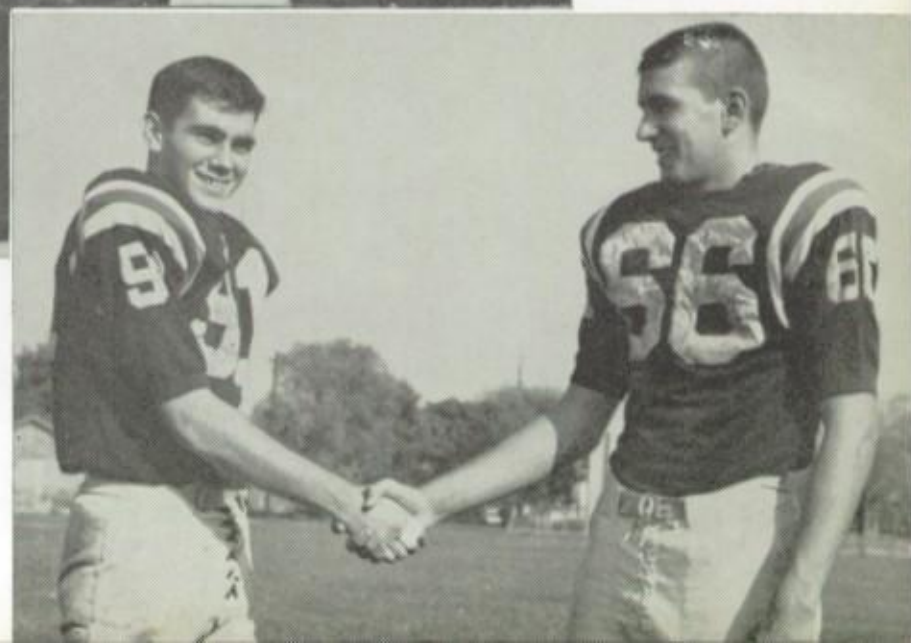

DESTINATION EUROPE! Essay contest winner, Craig Johnson, prepares to board a plane for his trip abroad to seven European countries.

as we strive for goals ahead

YA' GOTTA FIGHT! Cheerleaders organize spirit and spur the varsity eleven to victory.

GRIDIRON CANDIDATES. Denny Troth, runner-up, congratulates Senior Class President, Joe Purichia.

Profiles of maturity

RELIGIOUS PURSUIT. Mary Lou Comer realizes the importance of religious belief in daily worship.

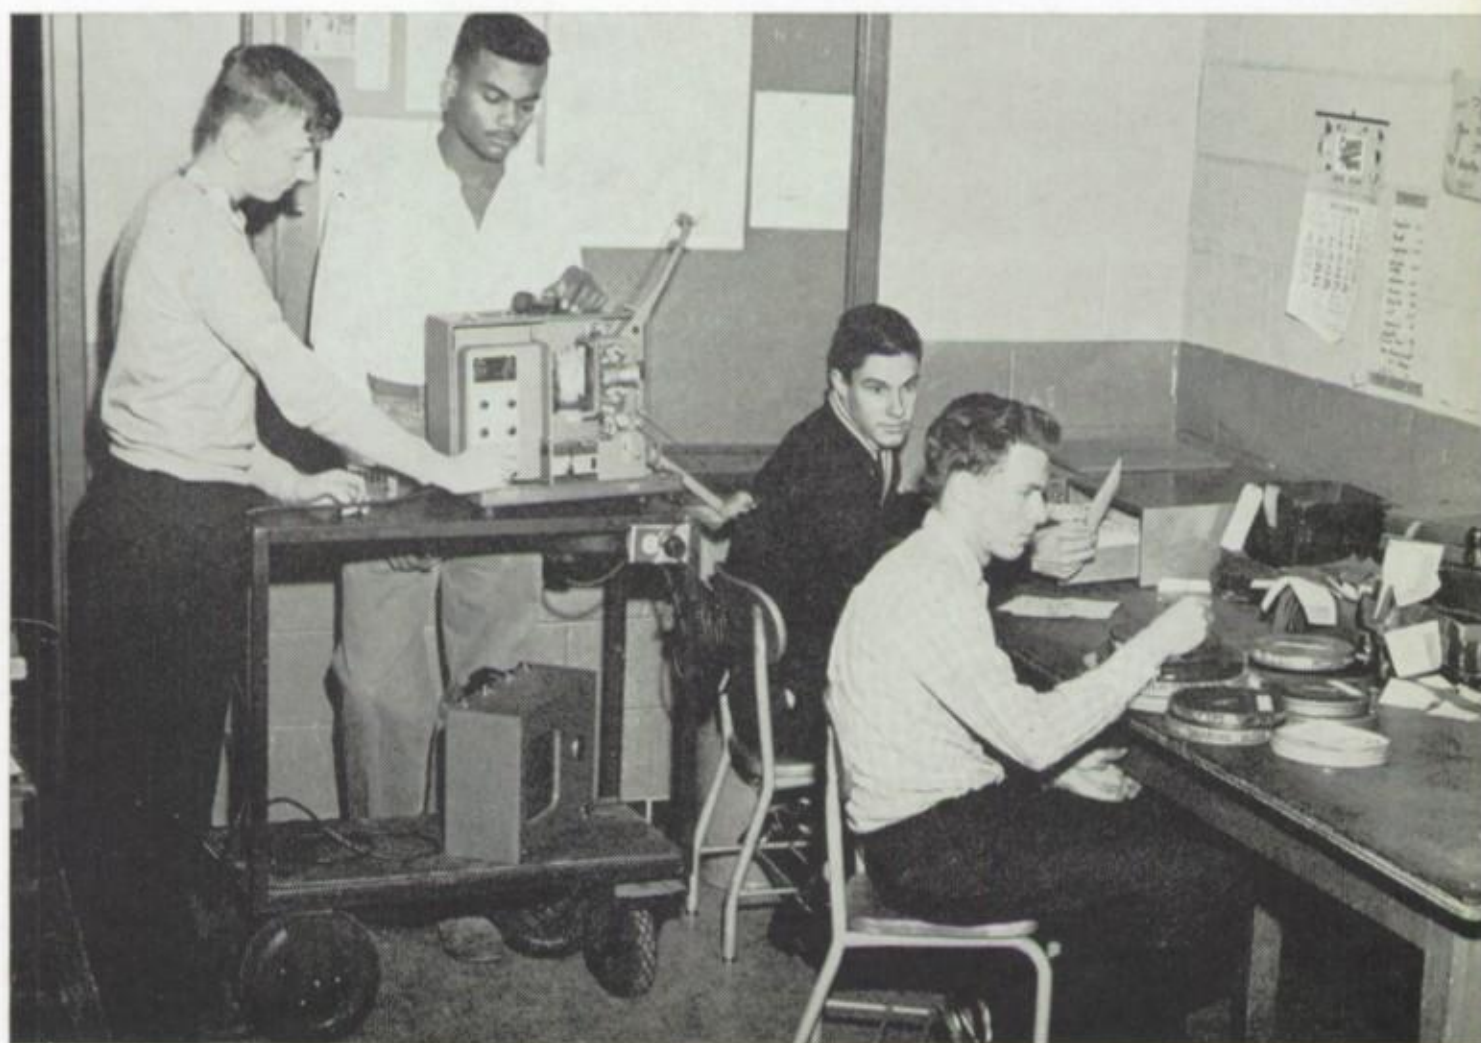

ABOUT FACE! Performing with precision, the Drill Team displays its marching skills.

WHERE DOES IT HURT? Clinic assistants, Ophelia Vaughter and Sandra Weasner, perform one of their tasks as they comfort Helen Lucas.

as we accept responsibilities cheerfully

DE MILLES TO BE? Gaining experience with projectors and movies are Paul Herring, Bob Anderson, John McGrew, and Vernon Austermiller.

GIRLS, GIRLS, GIRLS! The vaudeville chorus line adds color, life, and variety to the show.

Profiles of pride as we go into the community

STRIKE UP THE BAND! The Continentals march to the rhythm of a tune in a holiday parade.

FILL IT UP? Ron Stowe earns extra money working as a gasoline station attendant after school.

FASHION-MINDED MISS. Donna Baldwin, a member of a local Fashion Board, double checks her appearance.

Progress as we achieve academically

People do not realize that English is the basis of every phase of their life. As individuals we must be able to communicate with others and to convey our ideas and desires. When an individual studies English, he learns to communicate with others both in speaking and in writing. Three years of English are required for graduation. In addition to regular English classes, journalism, speech, and advanced English may be elected. Time spent in the reading laboratory gives us a change to improve our reading skills and comprehension. English classes stimulate our mind, and enable us to express ourselves clearly.

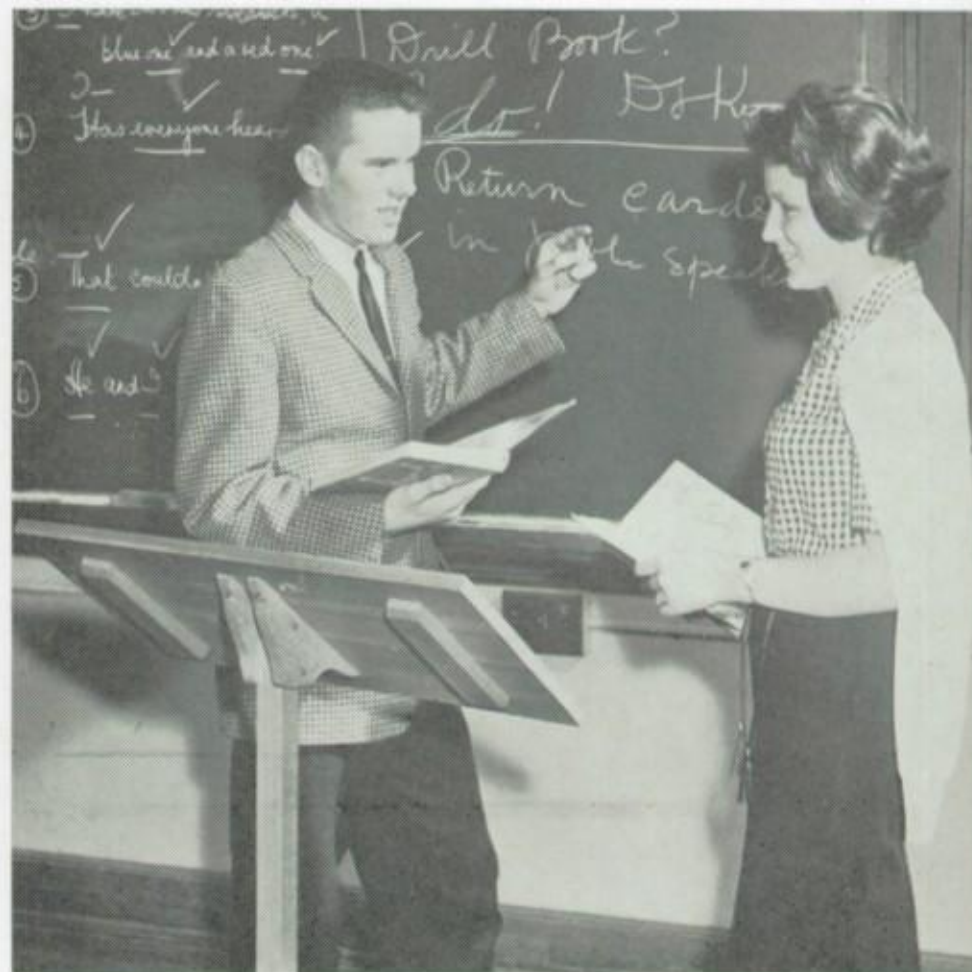

SET YOUR PACERS! Pupils increase their reading ability when using the facilities of the reading lab.

English opens door to self-expression

THE GREAT WRITER! In English composition classes, we strive for our best literary achievements.

ACCENT ON ENGLISH! David Schied and Ann Pittman deliver speeches to their English class.

Comprehension is aim in language lab

ROLL THE TAPE! Advanced Spanish students use modern methods to learn the art of speaking the language fluently.

The expansion of the student body was met in the Language Department with the addition of a new foreign language, French. The language curriculum now consists of classes in Latin, Spanish, and French. Although the main purpose is to acquaint the pupil with the grammar and speaking of the language, there are also outside events to which the pupil can contribute. Donating to the CARE FUND gives each pupil a chance to show his humanitarian side. The money is used to send CARE packages to either a Spanish, Italian, or French speaking country each year. In tune with the Christmas spirit, the Spanish classes sponsor a Christmas Party. Also pupils enrolled in Latin sponsor a Roman Banquet in the Spring. For those interested in furthering their knowledge or beginning a vocation, language is necessary. All three languages serve as stepping stones to the future.

CARE ENOUGH! Pupils of the Language Department contribute time and money to the CARE FUND.

PYTHAGORAS WAS RIGHT! Demonstrating the correct form, Gloria Apple explains a theorem to her geometry class

Science and math set the pace for our

AVOGADRO AND FRIEND? Futhering their knowledge of science, Jack Vaughn and Bill Russell experiment in Chemistry.

An increasing interest in science has brought additions to the faculty at George Washington High School. Twelve-hundred students compose the classes in chemistry, physics, biology, and physical science. Here, students study with facilities that surpass most high schools in Indiana. Not only does the department maintain a well-equipped laboratory, but it also has a science library. This outstanding library contains many volumes to stimulate an interest for advancement in science. Throughout the past year, this department has been awarded many distinct honors. In the fall our school was represented by thirty-four students at the Indiana Junior Academy of Science. Craig Johnson was elected President of the Academy, and Pat Kira was named Co-Outstanding Girl Scientist for the year. Through the study of science, we strive to encourage the students of George Washington High School to broaden their horizons and realize the necessity of this fascinating subject.

IT'S MOVING! Classmates Helen Lucas, Steve Shew, Cindy Allen, and Eleanor Spirestone prepare a slide to study microscopic life in a drop of water.

The ancient Egyptians, Babylonians, Greeks, and Romans all used symbols to represent their numbers. As centuries have passed, new methods have come into existence which make it possible for us to better understand the use of figures. Math is a sound basis upon which our culture is built. Students with a good background in mathematics realize how important it is in their lives. At Washington, ninth graders have the opportunity to take algebra or general mathematics. Some students then advance to geometry, more advanced algebra, and in some cases solid geometry. During their senior year, students who excel in math can further their knowledge and take college algebra, analytical geometry, trigonometry, or senior math. Math, just as everything else in this modern world, is progressing rapidly. At Washington the Mathematics Department is constantly taking steps to keep the students aware of the change in the world of mathematics.

future endeavors

IT'S A WOMAN'S WORLD! Katherine Sommer explains principles of solid geometry to her all male audience.

THERE IT IS! Students in world history have located something interesting for class discussion.

Discussions highlight history study

LOOKING AROUND! Mildred Lee, Glen Williams, Karen Thompson, and Brenda Baker try their skill at locating different parts of the world.

Young people learn from the past and present to help build a better future. History gives young Americans ideas with which they can apply themselves so that our nation will suffer no decline in power and diplomacy. Higher goals are easier to attain with a fair knowledge of history. Freshmen and Sophomores may enroll in world geography and world history. After United States history is completed, seniors are required to take American government the first semester and economic problems the next. Optional courses that are offered are Indiana history and international relations. These classes participate in radio programs, panel discussions, debates, and mock conventions. Each facet of history is analyzed and thoroughly covered so that each history student emerges a well-educated and well-prepared citizen who will carry on this nation's tradition of moral, religious, and political freedom in the future.

Progress as we prepare for vocations

SPEED COUNTS! Mr. Carmichael dictates the lesson while his shorthand class pushes for speed and accuracy.

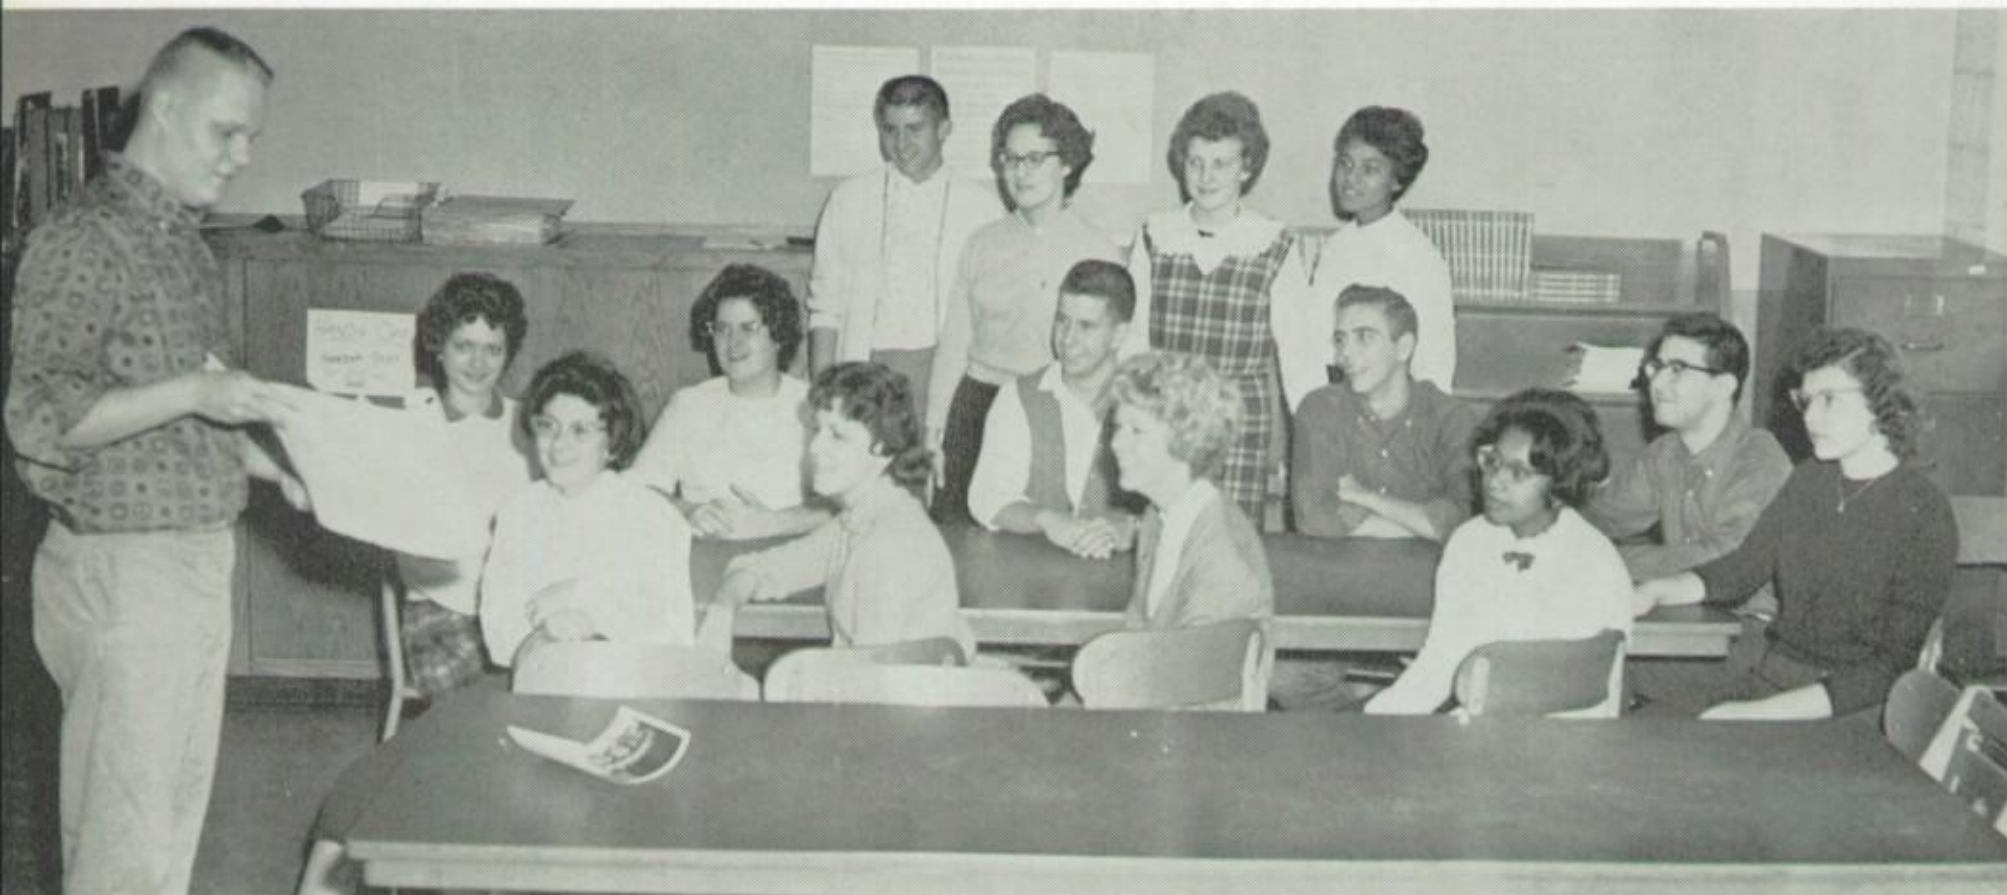

MAY I HELP YOU? Two pupils demonstrate salesmanship techniques.

Pupils learn office practices

A step into progress is taken when a student successfully finishes a well-planned business course. A student who has been carefully trained in business education finds that the efficiency and orderliness he has acquired can be put to good use. This training is not only illustrated in school work, but also in skills which are utilized in many occupations. The Business Education Department at George Washington High School strives to outline courses which supply practical and functional solutions to the numerous problems found in the business world. Alert instructors keep abreast with any changes which add to the final product of a well-trained student. Evidence of our enthusiasm for high caliber work is found in the girls and boys from this school who have taken positions throughout the city. Silhouettes of progress are clearly shown upon the strong background of good business education.

ADDITION IN NO TIME! Mrs. Pittman demonstrates to Ronald Tice the proper use of the adding machine.

ATTENTION, PLEASE! Steve Dalzell explains procedures to POST staff members Carolyn Buckner, Diane Schwalm, Myra Kerr, Diane Yovanovich, Gary

Publication staffs

ONE DOWN, TWO TO GO. Checking the POST'S progress are Janice Potter, business manager; Steve Dalzell, editor-in-chief; and Sherry Selch, assistant editor.

Recording the history of the busy year 1961 and 1962 is the ultimate goal of the publications staff. The POST staff tries to recapture days of the year gone by. The business manager of the POST sees to it that the sales campaigns, picture sales, and other journalism business runs smoothly. Although the year of 1962 has not passed, the yearbook captures glimpses of a promising year. This is the challenge of 1962.

Bi-weekly, the SURVEYOR is distributed to every Continental subscriber. The editor-in-chief works diligently to bring the subscriber the latest news and information of Continentland. Before the newspaper reaches a single person, the editor checks and rechecks it so that it is in good order when it is distributed. As we move on to bigger and better things, the "Washington Way" is illustrated by the publications staff in its newspaper and yearbook.

BIG WHEELS! Editor-in-chief Evelyn Thomas gives assignments to her editorial staff Carole McKinney, Charles Spurgeon, Richard Kellems, and Russell Arnett.

THAT'S MY STORY! Jean Hayes points out one of her Teen Star articles to Virginia Cole and Sherry Selch.

HEADLINERS! Listening to Editor Evelyn Thomas, members of the SURVEYOR staff are Virginia Cole, Jean Sorrell, Vivian Garrison, Sherry Selch, Janice Kittle, Sandy Garlock, John Koon, Jean Hayes, Richard Kellems, Charles Spurgeon, Carole McKinney, Jack Vaughn, Danny Jaquess, and Russell Arnett.

NOT A WRINKLE! Sandy Love learns how to make and take proper care of her clothes.

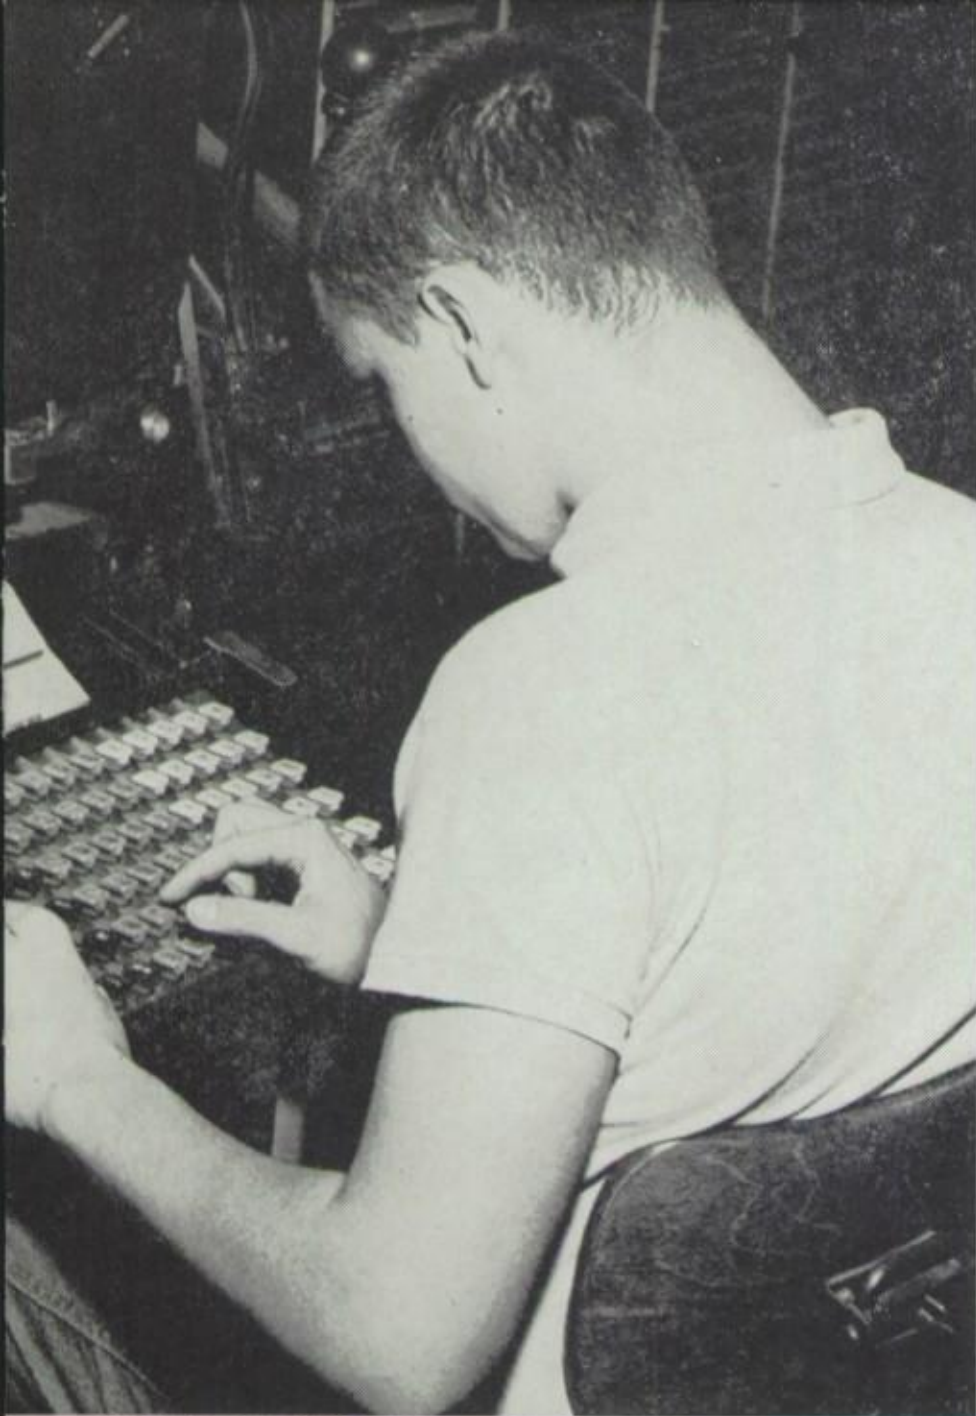

Shopmen develop manual skills;

Striving through the years to keep up with the ever growing needs of industry, our Industrial Arts Department has increased its facilities. Regardless of what a student is planning to be, the latest equipment and the most highly trained instructors are available to prepare him for a future occupation. A wide array of courses is offered by our Industrial Arts Department. Many of our courses such as press work and auto shop are offered for three years. If a longer period of time is desired a course in drafting, electricity, and woodworking may be selected.

The print shop preserves lasting memories in THE POST and bring to the student body current news in THE SURVEYOR. The print shop also prints all official documents for the school. Washington is fortunate in having such a well-equipped Industrial Arts Department.

HOT OFF THE PRESS! Don McQuinn and Jim Posey watch as finished prints come out of the press.

EIGHT ON TEN! Henry Cook works on a slug of type to be used for a school publication.

Home economics is one of the many courses given at George Washington High School which prepares young people for the future. With the clean and modern kitchens in the cooking rooms, and the adequate sewing facilities, this course of instruction becomes instructive as well as constructive. After the completion of this subject, the boys and girls have a feeling of accomplishment. Washington High School shares in the responsibility of training the homemakers of tomorrow. Through the years, home economics has become a very important subject. Today it is a very interesting and beneficial class. It adds much to the later development of the student. It also helps the student to become more self-confident and willing to try to accomplish what seems to be impossible. Through the work of the home economics faculty, the student learns much about making a house a well-kept home.

girls investigate homemaking arts

HOW MANY CUPS? Darlene Beasley, Sandy Davidson, and Ann Campbell increase their culinary ability while becoming better homemakers.

Progress as we examine the fine arts

Musicians captivate audiences as Sound the trumpets! The marching Continentals are coming up the field of success. Many compliments were received for their great performances throughout the year. Their cooperation as a group illustrates their excellent school spirit. Credit is due to Director Mr. Ray C. Funk, Drum Major Robert Bremer, and the baton twirling majorettes for the fine work they have displayed this year. Perhaps a few schools have a larger musical organization, but as far as performance is concerned, Washington's band is considered one of the best in Indianapolis.

The orchestra started this year with a wide-span program ahead of it. The orchestra's abilities are displayed during the year by performing at P-TA meetings, the Spring Music Festival, school convocations, and at Central State Hospital. Four people, chosen for excellence in music, are taken from each city high school to perform in the All-City High School Symphony during the winter. These activities help make music a more enjoyable pursuit.

SYMPHONY MATERIAL? Members of the orchestra are row 1: E. Thomas, D. Merriweather, D. Roberts, N. Fultz, E. Collingsworth, C. Landess, R. Herndon, S. Geiling, M. Peffley, T. Tearney; row 2: C. Mr. Charles Hamilton directs the group.

Chorus, Ensemble perform for city

What better way can one find to pass the time than by singing? As the seasons fade into years, the moods of their songs are captured in music. Many opportunities are offered for musically inclined students to show their talents. The general groups are the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs. The selective groups are the Girls' and Boys' Concert Clubs and the Girls' Ensemble. The most selective groups are the Colonial Chorus and the Continentallaires. These groups visit many communities and bring good cheer to everyone. The vocal groups of George Washington High School surpass many of the surrounding schools in city-wide recognition. The groups are renowned for performances at school. They compete with many other high school musical organizations and are known for their excellence in uniformity.

SILVER VOICES. Included in the Girls' Concert Club are Row 1: C. Houshouer, J. Beard, K. Wiley, D. Wilson, V. Wilson, S. Smock, P. Miller, C. Boone, S. Haggatt, E. Cole, J. Swafford, B. Kramer, J. Lucas, J. Blake, K. Lang; Row 2: L. Davidson, C. Opp, C. Gugenheim, K. Dickman, N. Schaffer, R. Douglass, L. Bennett, S. Campbell, L. Rothman, T. Gosnell, D. Barry, J. Baird, C. Hodges, S. Art throughout the ages has been a "measuring stick" in man's civilization and intelligence. The students at Washington are following in the footsteps of their talented predecessors. Art is not just a slapping of paint on a piece of canvas. Into these various pictures goes, a little bit of each person, their feelings, ideals, and of course their talents. Progression in time also means an advancement in the abilities to supply students with more and more art subjects. New this year is a course in lettering. For the especially artistic student there are advanced courses in art and craft. Jewelry also adds a variation to the normal art course. Students interested in the commercial aspect of art find an outlet to their talents in commercial arts. This course covers fashion illustrations and advertisements. We, at Washington, wish to commend this award-winning department for the wonderful work it is doing with talented students.

Feelings, ideals, and talents shown in art

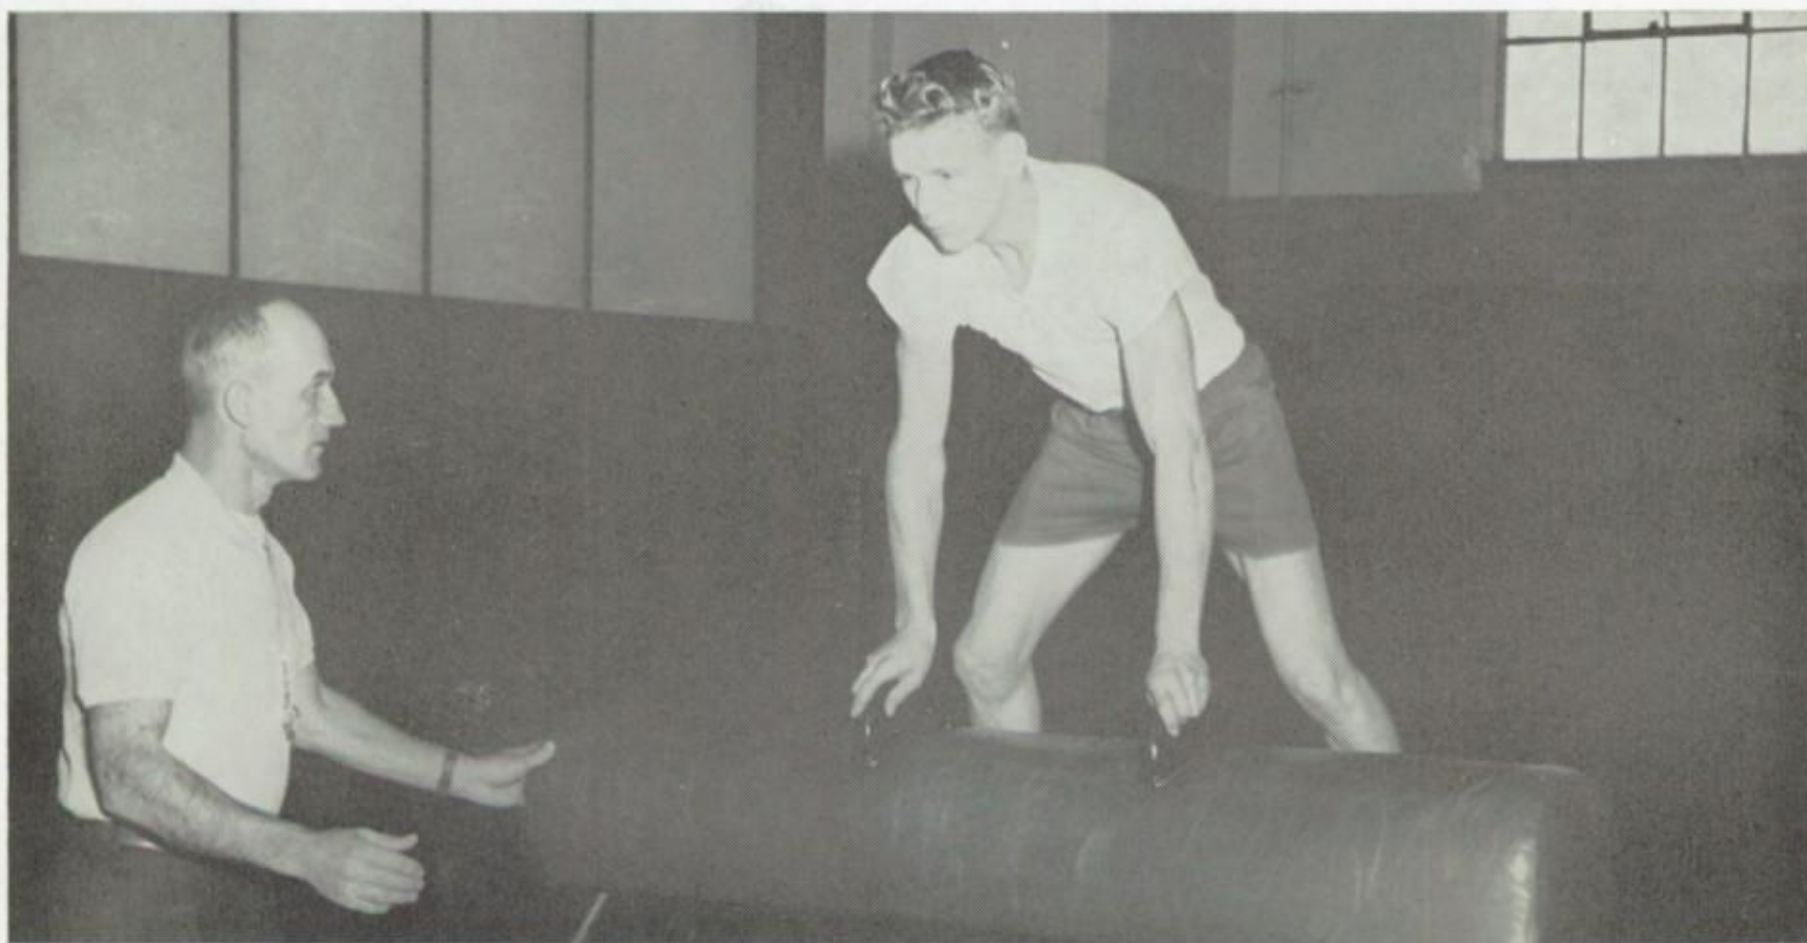

BLENDING COLORS. Working with chalk and exploring design are two of the projects of Art III classes.

PRECIOUS JEWELS? Tony Weddle enjoys making jewelry to use as practical gifts.

Progress as we gain physical coordination

UP AND OVER! As Mr. Luzar gives assistance, Dillion Jump makes use of the spring board to leap over the gymnasium apparatus.

RAIL-WALKERS! Girls enrolled in physical education classes increase their muscular skill and coordination while working on the balance beams.

Physical education plays a big role in the first semester of many freshmen. Because a year of this subject is required, many students find themselves enjoying it their first semester. After completing this first year of physical and mental training, many may choose to continue. Boys may further their activities in sports, while girls may wish to help in this discipline training by becoming gym assistants.

A credit in drivers education means transportation to school for many Continentals. With the newly acquired parking regulations, the student must have a credit in drivers ed and a safety sticker given by the city police. Drivers education enables the student at George Washington High School to practice driving under the proper supervision.

Health and safety is also an important subject at Washington. This subject allows the student to learn what good health is and also how to keep it. All of these subjects add much to the activities of many Continentals.

COURT MARTIAL? Members of the officers disciplining board, Donald Bee, John Heinzmann, and Mickey Eller, decide on the punishment for Richard Burdette.

Cadets receive officers' training

A TOUCH OF CHARM. Janice Nash adds glamour to Washington's military unit as vice-principal Mr. Mahan crowns her Military Ball Queen.

BEST DRESSED MAN? Cadet Jerry Banks wonders if his uniform will pass the close inspection of sponsors Cheryl Swartz and Janice Nash.

OLD GLORY! Displaying the national colors are Jerry Housel, Bob Stowe, Britt Burks, and Bud Carroll.

Mind and body health stressed in ROTC

BULLSEYE! A member of the R.O.T.C. Rifle Team takes aim on the school shooting range.

Man has always practiced the art of self-defense. The boys who enroll in ROTC learn the fundamentals of this skill. Whether it is cleaning rifles, marching with the color guard, or being judged during inspection, they present themselves in a uniform fashion. Once a week the boys in the ROTC are judged on their appearance and knowledge of the ROTC by their sponsors. The experience gathered here gives young men a chance to prepare for a stable future. One highlight of the ROTC year is the annual Federal Inspection. Here, the boys display with pride their acquired skills. Another high point in the ROTC boys year is the traditional Military Ball, which offers a touch of charm and glamour to the yearly activities. The boys will look back and remember this position of honor they held during their high school years.

Faculty

Cloyd J. Julian, our principal, officiates over the faculty of our school to make sure it runs smoothly and efficiently. The faculty is subdivided into department heads and then come the teachers with whom the student is more in contact with during his schooling. The teachers add a personal touch to daily classes. Often, it is these teachers who arouse in the pupil the desire to go to college and learn all he possibly can. Another facility available for the students' benefit is the new guidance office, which maintains counselors who are willing and able to aid the student in the choice of a college or a vocation. One counselor is assigned to each class, and he works closely with the homeroom teacher. By taking advantage of the facilities offered, the student can make his four year stay at Washington a rewarding, worthwhile, and long remembered experience.

Faculty, administrators work together

SUMMIT CONFERENCE! Mr. Julian, Mr. Marshall, and Mr. Mahan review the events of the '61-'62 school year and make plans for the coming semester.

NO TIME FOR COFFEE BREAKS! The office staff consists of Mrs. Nellie La Mar, Mrs. Florina Hendricks, Miss Margaret Hannan, Miss Mary Mitchell, Miss Anna Mae Harrison, Mrs. Aileen Dickman, Mrs. Doris Downey, Mrs. Connie Baldwin, Mrs. Mary Funk, Mrs. Evelyn Farmer, Mrs. Wilma Crippen, and Mrs. Grace Arvin.

Profiles of Progress

IN ACTIVITIES

With that added spark of spirit that makes work and recreation interchangeable, we find keen personal satisfaction in extra-curricular activities.

Honor winners represent Washington

ARE YOU SURE? Pat Kira, Frank Starkey, Gorden Clark, and Craig Johnson, the traveling scientists, compare notes taken from their college trips this summer.

Cultivating new interests, Continental representatives took part in conferences in various parts of the state and nation throughout the entire year. Representatives to Hoosier Boys' and Girls' State were given the opportunity to organize and run a simulated state government. Interested science students furthered their knowledge of scientific concepts by attending the conferences pertaining to the various fields of science. Government minded students were given a chance to hold mock sessions of the Senate and House of Representatives. They also passed bills at the Purdue Legislative Assembly. Representatives of the Journalism Department took part in three conferences held at Indiana University during the summer. Through these conferences the young journalists gained a better understanding of journalism and brought back to Washington many ideas to improve Continental publications.

Senior girls form the Washingtonians Service Club to aid the Freshmen girls in getting acquainted with the school through Big and Little Parties each semester.

Student council representatives meet and help further pupil, teacher relations. The council is sponsored by Miss Leunice Horne, who helps president, Mike Guffin and the other members when they discuss the rules and guidance problems of Continentaland. Student Council Officers preside at the meetings of the council and obtain outstanding results. Delegates from all the city schools meet to form the Intra-City Council, and they exchange ideas and information.

Leading the school in scholastic ability, the members of the National Honor Society promote leadership, interest and cooperation throughout the school.

OFF WE GO! Representatives to the Intra-City Student Council are Vicki Hennigar, Sandra Marsh, Maxine Kennedy, Craig Johnson, and Mike Guffin.

TEACHERS-TO-BE! Members of the F.T.A. headed by Mrs. Florence Smith are Gloria Goodwin, Doris Merriweather, Mary Martin, Janet Patrick, Emilie Parsons, Mary Medsker, Evelyn Thomas, Becky Spicer, Marcia Shelly, Sandy Marsh, Delores Eller, Kathy Hoffman.

Latin, Bible, Drama, and FTA clubs offer

DO UNTO OTHERS! Mrs. Laura French, sponsor, poses with the school's Bible Club members Judy Embry, Patty Tremble, Nancy Fultz, Connie Dalton, Bertha Mae Dix, and Delores Eller.

The development of character and minds is the basis for the organization of many clubs. One of the many clubs of Washington High School is the Future Teachers of America. These members are enthusiastic about teaching. They are called cadet teachers and are accepted only if they have at least a C-average.

Another club is the Bible Club in which the understanding of religion is discussed. These members review the life of Christ and his teachings to understand more fully the meaning of the Bible.

The Latin Club makes Latin enjoyable and practical. The Roman Banquet is held for the members reminiscent of Roman days.

The Drama Club with the actors and backstage artists add glamour to acting. Thespians is an exclusive club in which individuals must earn a certain number of credits in drama. Like the Drama Club, the thespians sponsor many plays and perform for the student body.

SHOW PEOPLE! Trying to show that there's no business like show business, members of the Thespians are Jack Vaughn, Karren Genty, Gary McFall, Charlene Zeronik, and Vicki Burns.

NO Y-TEEN TROPHY? Y-teen members, are Pat Gardener, Vivian Boone, Jo Ann Campbell, Judy Plunkett, Karren Genty, Judith Hinton, and Linder Jeter.

Organizations stress

The girls of Y-Teens learn to grow mentally in many ways. They learn to live with other groups of people, learn to help one another in times of need, and learn to enjoy each other's company. In one big word—they learn togetherness. Y-Teens are a branch of the Young Women's Christian Association. This non-profit organization teaches the youth of today the importance of a spiritual and mental growth as well as physical growth. During the year a nut sale is sponsored by the Y-Teen club. Prizes are awarded to the girl with the highest total of sales.

One would think that only boys would be interested in the Chess Club, but the Chess Club of George Washington High School develops this intellectual game for both boys and girls. Making chess a sport is the purpose of the club. It also strives to develop the mind in logic and concentration powers. The members of this club find that chess is an absorbing game.

Two clubs that influence the minds of our students are High School Red Cross and Science Club. The High School Red Cross aids students in developing an attitude of sharing and helping. Their many duties include collecting clothing and money to send to hospitals. A yearly conference is held to obtain information on the progress of the High School Red Cross program in each school. At the end of the year members understand a great deal more about being willing helpers.

Exploring the known and unknown science is the work of the Science Club. They have guest speakers, special projects, and films on various subjects. The Science Club points out the beauty of nature and its way of life, but members are also interested in man's adaptation of natural forces for useful purposes. The Science Club offers many hours of enjoyable extra activity for budding scientists.

WILLING TO HELP. Officers of the High School Red Cross are Sandy Gray, Sharon Dalton, Jackie Stillwell, John Rust, Paulette Frye, and Tom Rust, president.

Naturalists and Junto clubs take field trips

NATURE LOVERS. Members of the Naturalist Club are Vivian Garrison, Evelyn Thomas, Gordon Clark, Jean Sorrell, Richard Roberts, Carole McKinney, and Pat Kira, president and field trip leader.

The Junto Club and the Naturalist Club are joined by the students because of a curiosity to seek knowledge of the world. Trips to historical places and museums aid in the gaining of knowledge of our much explored earth. Seeking new discoveries to widen their knowledge of unknown facts of history are the pleasures of elements the Junto Club offers these young students. Better understanding of history creates a challenge to a greater knowledge of the years past.

Another club at Washington High School also interested in the world and its elements is the Naturalist Club. They explore the secrets of nature and are impressed by its excellence to create such beautiful and wonderful works of art. The students join together in exploring nature by field trips and references taken from nature books. The ways of nature and history are still unsolved but through enthusiastic study we learn many things become clearer.

Students producing high quality work in journalism are honored by receiving membership in Washington's chapter of Quill & Scroll, an International Honor Society for High School Journalists. Membership in this organization is based on the students ability, scholarship, and contributions in journalism.

Highlighting the yearbook subscription campaign, is the crowning of Johnnie and Connie Continental. Selected as the typical teenage couple of Continentaland, Johnnie and Connie help set the standards of citizenship and leadership at Washington.

Preparing speeches and arguments for debate, the members of the Debate Club ready themselves for competition. With the guidance of Miss Allie Dragoo, debaters gain knowledge and experience as well as the enjoyment of a victory well earned.

3-MINUTE MILERS? Members of the Track Queen Court are Deanna Johnson, Sandy Marsh, Track Queen Sally Reddick, Becky Mraz, and Jo VanBlaricum.

WASHINGTON'S CANDIDATE! Senior Marsha Brown was selected Princess of Light and represented Washington in the Indianapolis Christmas Parade.

Seasonal festivities boast feminine touch

WHEEL OF FORTUNE. With the spin of a wheel Kathy Hazelwood was named Indianapolis Yards-Parks Queen and will represent Indiana in Washington D.C. during the summer celebration.

Adding a special touch of charm to the school year, queens reign over various important events. Kicking off the football season, a jamboree queen is chosen by the varsity football team. Then in the middle of the season, the entire student body selects a homecoming queen and court. Still reigning over athletics events, a track queen and court are chosen by the track team in the spring. They are present at all meets and give out awards as they are won. Two special honors are the Princess of Light and the Yards-Parks Queen. Both of these girls must represent Washington outside of the immediate community. The Princess of Light vies for a top queenship chosen by chance just as the Yard Parks Queen does. This year Kathy Hazlewood, Washington's Yard-Parks Queen, won this title for the entire city.

Lack of experience

FOURTH AND EIGHT! Coach Joe Tofil looks dejected as the defensive team waits to go into the game.

FIRST DOWN! Jimmy Highbaugh is successful on his end of a pass as he goes for a first down.

The varsity gridders, a team picked to watch, failed to show winning form. However, their two wins and one tie do not include all of the gains made. Two quarterbacks, Joe Purichia and Randy Payne, called plays which put a scare into the offenders, as Bill Hattiex placed high on the city scoring list. The fans gave their support as the season progressed, but Coach Joe Tofil couldn't seem to build a fire under the boys. Injuries hurt the Big Purple, and Joe Purichia watched the Cathedral game from the sidelines. Inexperience was also a factor causing the team to falter. The team didn't seem the greatest, but the boys did their best.

JUST THREE MORE INCHES! The ball barely eludes Clark Dickerson as he skillfully makes a diving stab at it.

Reserves end season

Washington's reserve gridders finished the year with a 4-4-0 record. The second year men started the season with a pair of losses to Manual and Shortridge. The tide turned for a moment as the reserves downed Broad Ripple and Ben Davis. After bowing to Cathedral and Tech, the reserve players came back with wins over Scecina and Howe.

Though it wasn't a perfect season, 1961 was a year of experience and training for the reserve team and left the school with high hopes for a successful season in 1962.

CO-CITY CHAMPS! This was the title earned by the tough freshman gridders and their coach John Williams, as they finished the season with a 7-1 record. The Little Purple started out the season with a victory over Manual 6-0, and backed this up with a rousing win over Shortridge 13-0. The outstanding playing of quarterback, Eddie Bopp, added the final touch to a strong defense to take the frosh team to another triumph over Broad Ripple 12-7. From that game through the rest of the season there was no stopping the shotgun offense and the charging line of our freshman team. They downed Ben Davis 28-0, Cathedral 18-0, and Tech 13-6. The only blemish on the record was a loss to the Seccina Crusaders 14-7. They ended the year with a win over Howe 14-0, and full of good prospects for next year's teams.

CONGRATULATIONS "SON." Principal Cloyd Julian presents Henry Cook with his reserve letter.

Led by a new coach, John Bradley, the cross country team won three of four dual meets. In two three-way meets the hustling harriers ran first and second respectively. The flying Continentals placed fourth in their own invitational. They also captured a fourth place in the Columbus Invitational. Going on to Howe, the harriers finished in tenth place. They closed out the season with a fourth in the City Meet and thirteenth in the Sectionals. Dennis Grider the little sophomore, led the team all year. Some of his accomplishments include capturing a first in the Southport Invitational and setting a new meet and course record of 10:16. Dennis ended the season by placing second in the city and fourteenth in the state.

The reserves also turned out a winning year with a blue ribbon in their one dual meet, and the frosh hill-and-dalers lost only one scheduled meet all season.

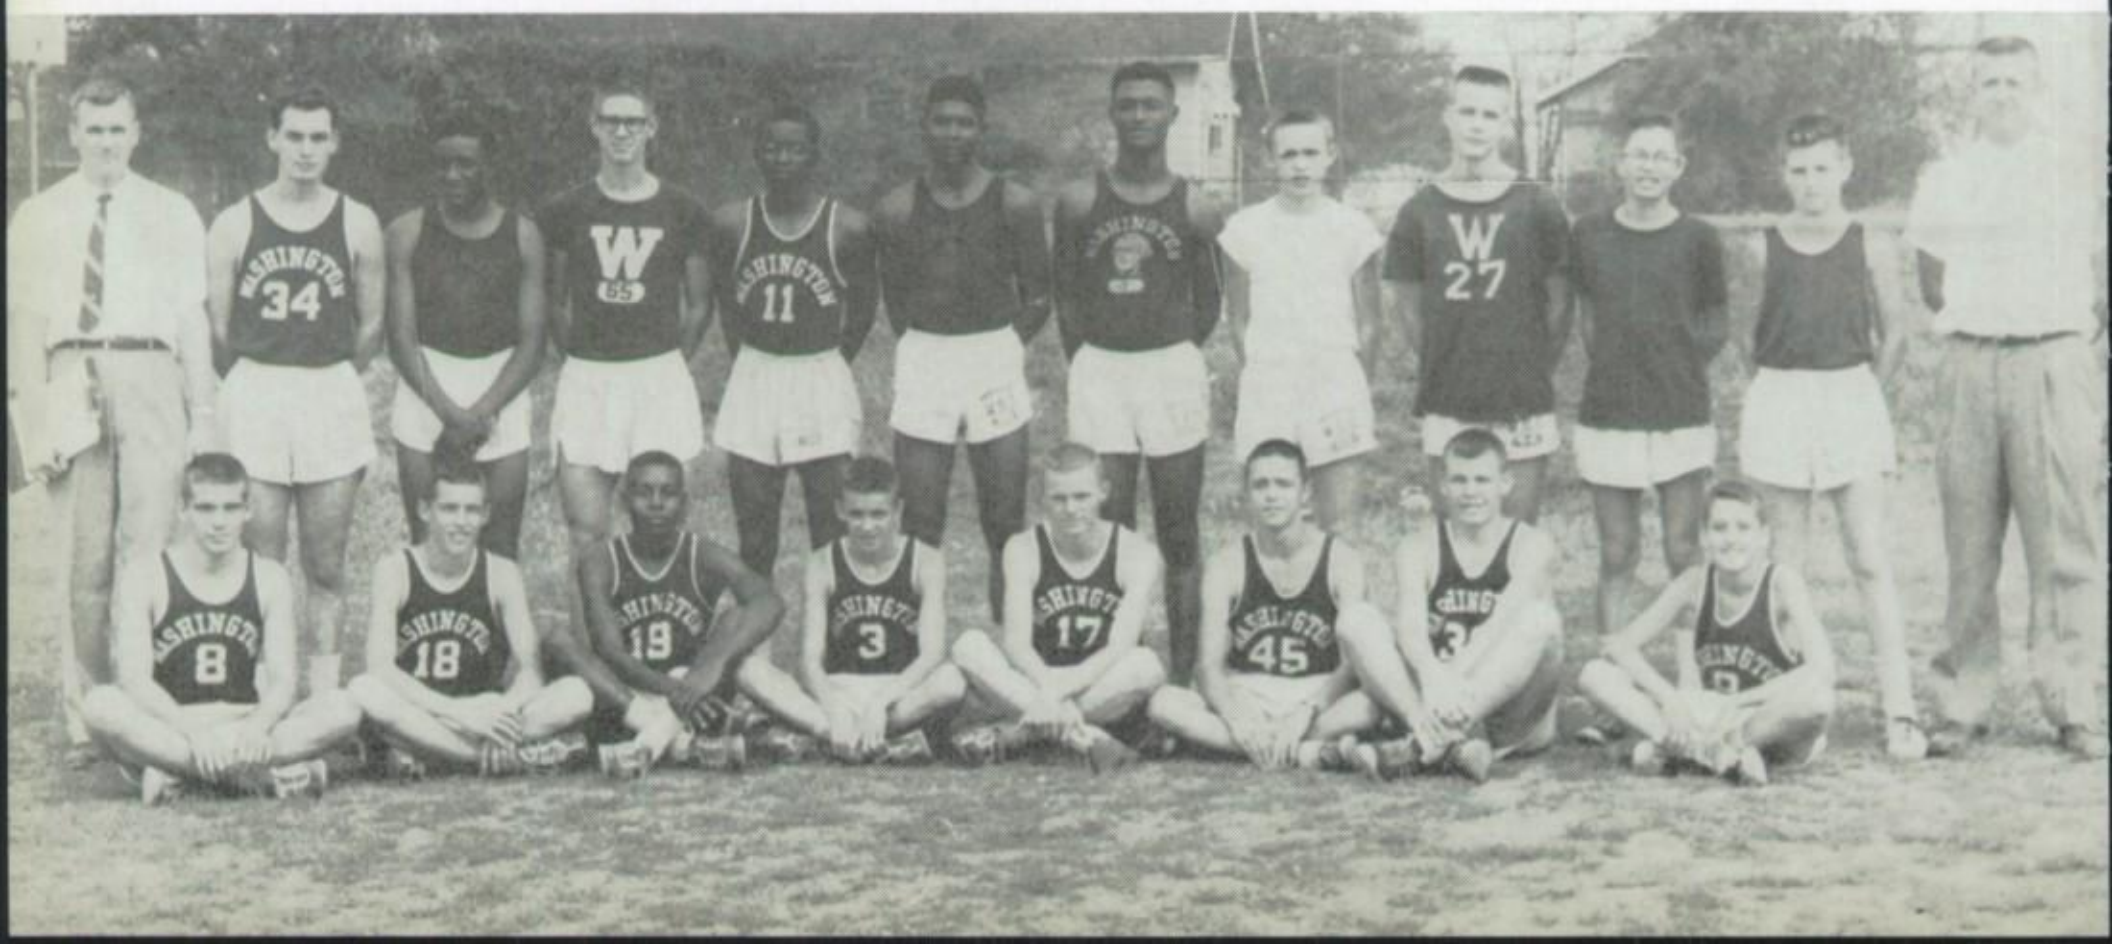

Underclass cross country teams recorded excellent seasons, and next year they will provide power packed varsity competition.

Varsity spirits soar as 21 opponents fall

Varsity basketball players this year earned for themselves and the school one of the finest seasons ever recorded by a Washington team. Their courage and ability, along with their wonderful desire to be the best, made the Washington five one of the most respected basketball teams in the state. The season ended with a 21-3 overall record—the best ever recorded by a Washington varsity team. However, even this splendid record cannot begin to show the team work and hard practice that went into this season. In their first trip to the Southport Sectionals the Olivermen almost took the whole show by sweeping past Decatur Central, Sacred Heart, and Manual. During the championship game of the Sectionals, the team played a tremendous game, but a spirited Southport team came out on top. The varsity team, even though they didn't come home with the sectional trophy are real champions no matter what way you look at it.

Reserves overpower 16 challengers

The reserve team and their coach, Richard Harmening, ended a very successful 1961-62 season with a 16-3 overall record. Opening the season with a thrilling double overtime victory over Howe, the B-ballers went on to defeat North Central, Lawrence Central, Warren Central, Cathedral, and Franklin by wide margins. The City Tourney saw the reserves defeat Broad Ripple and then bow to Tech in the semi-final game. Undaunted by this unexpected downfall the team went on to roll over Crawfordsville, Wood, Broad Ripple, Speedway, Scecina, Ben Davis, Shortridge, and Arlington. Washington's reserve five had another thrilling game as they defeated Manual in a heated overtime session. These victories were blemished in part by the other two losses of the year, one to Sacred Heart and the other to the Tech Titans. The spirited reserve team not only had a successful season, but gained invaluable experience and training, and certainly left Washington's hopes high for a winning varsity season.

IT'S THIS WAY, BOYS! Coach Harmening gives his reserve players a few instructions during a time out.

Frosh capture city net title

CITY CHAMPS! Once again Coach Russell McConnell completed a winning season (14-3) with his freshman team. The big difference this year was that their winning streak included the Freshman City Championship. Combining speed and ability with a strong desire to win, the "Little Purple" opened the season with a victory over Speedway, Cathedral, Scecina, Ben Davis, Sacred Heart, Howe, Tech, Arlington, and Southport. These victories were marred by the loss of only three games, Wood, Warren Central, and Attucks. Paying no attention to these losses, the frosh roundballers went on to sweep the City Tourney in championship style. In the opening game, they defeated Shortridge by a narrow margin of 23-22, but they quickly recovered from this near loss to roll over Manual in the semifinals, 37-31. Victory in these two games put the "Little Purple" in the Championship game against a fine Attucks five. Led by Ralph Taylor and Bill Keller the frosh five displayed amazing drive and spirit to come from behind and defeat the highly regarded Tigers, 28-27.

BLAST OFF! Freshman player Charles Rowland jumps high and fast after a loose ball.

Washington's matmen have finished another fine season, by winning five, losing five. The grapplers got off to a bad start but finished out the season winning the last three out of four meets. The matmen dropped their opener against Tech, then bounced back to defeat Secena. The boys then lost a pair of meets, one to Cathedral and one to Manual. The uphill battle then began with a distinctive tie with Wood. The next three meets were all decisive victories over Howe, Decatur Central, and Sacred Heart. The season ended with a loss at the hands of Larwerance Central.

The reserve matmen turned in a top notch season under the coaching of Frank Munshower. The reserves lost only one meet in six outings. Next year's team can look forward to a fine season.

The freshmen team went undefeated in their three scheduled meets. They also came through with a second place in the city. Varsity Coach Williams says, "There are some fine wrestlers on that freshmen team."

DOUBLE REVERSE? Trying to elude the clutches of Jim Denton is fellow wrestler William Bogle.

Trackmen begin winning season

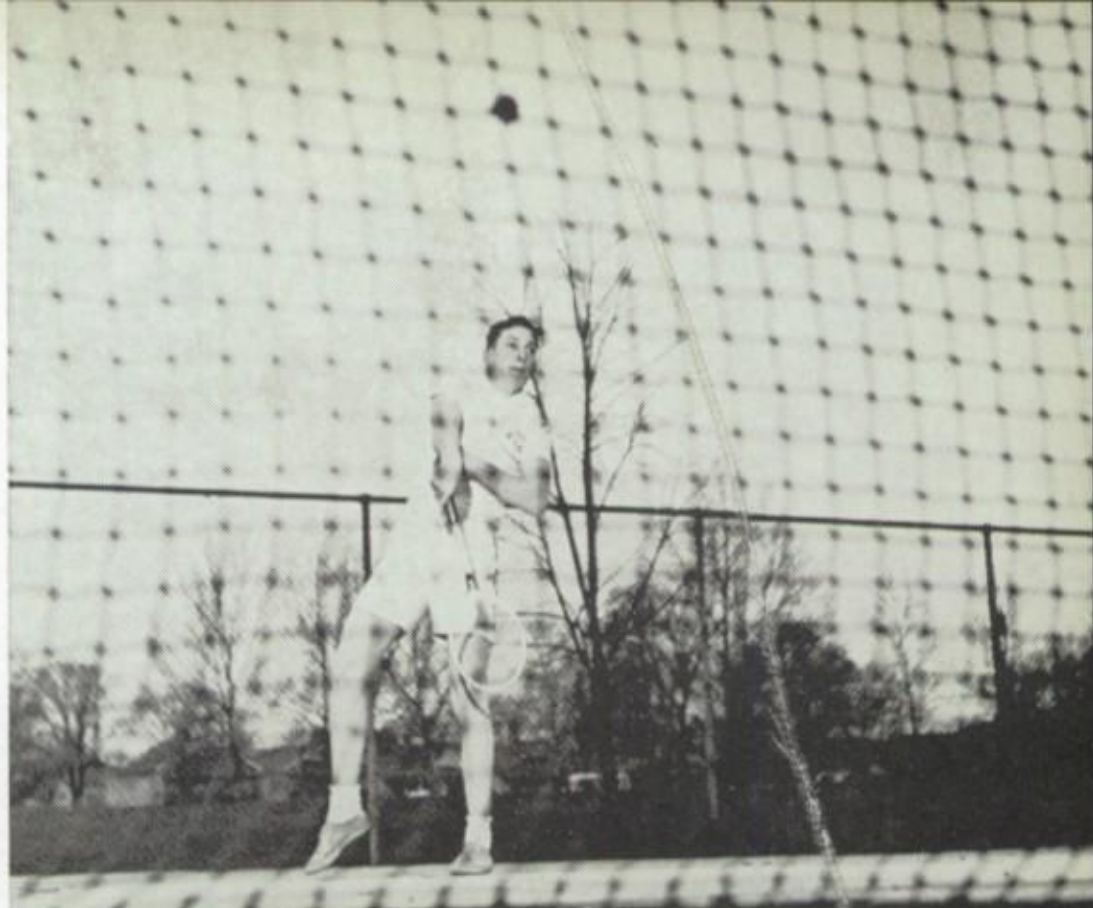

Under the direction of new coach, Harold Orman, the track team opened the season in fine manner. For the first time in some twenty-two years the tracksters downed Tech. Next on the schedule was a three way meet with Southport and Cathedral. The team came through with a second place behind Southport. The boys then participated in a meet against Howe. The team dropped the meet by a score of $70\frac{1}{2}$ to $28\frac{1}{2}$. For the first time this year Washington took part in the North Central Relays. Out of a field of ten teams Washington came through with flying colors and won second place.

The Reserve and Freshman teams won convincing victories over grueling opponents. Frosh coach, John Bradley, lead his little purple to a winning season. Coach Orman is looking forward to these boys and says, "There is a lot of varsity material on that freshman team."

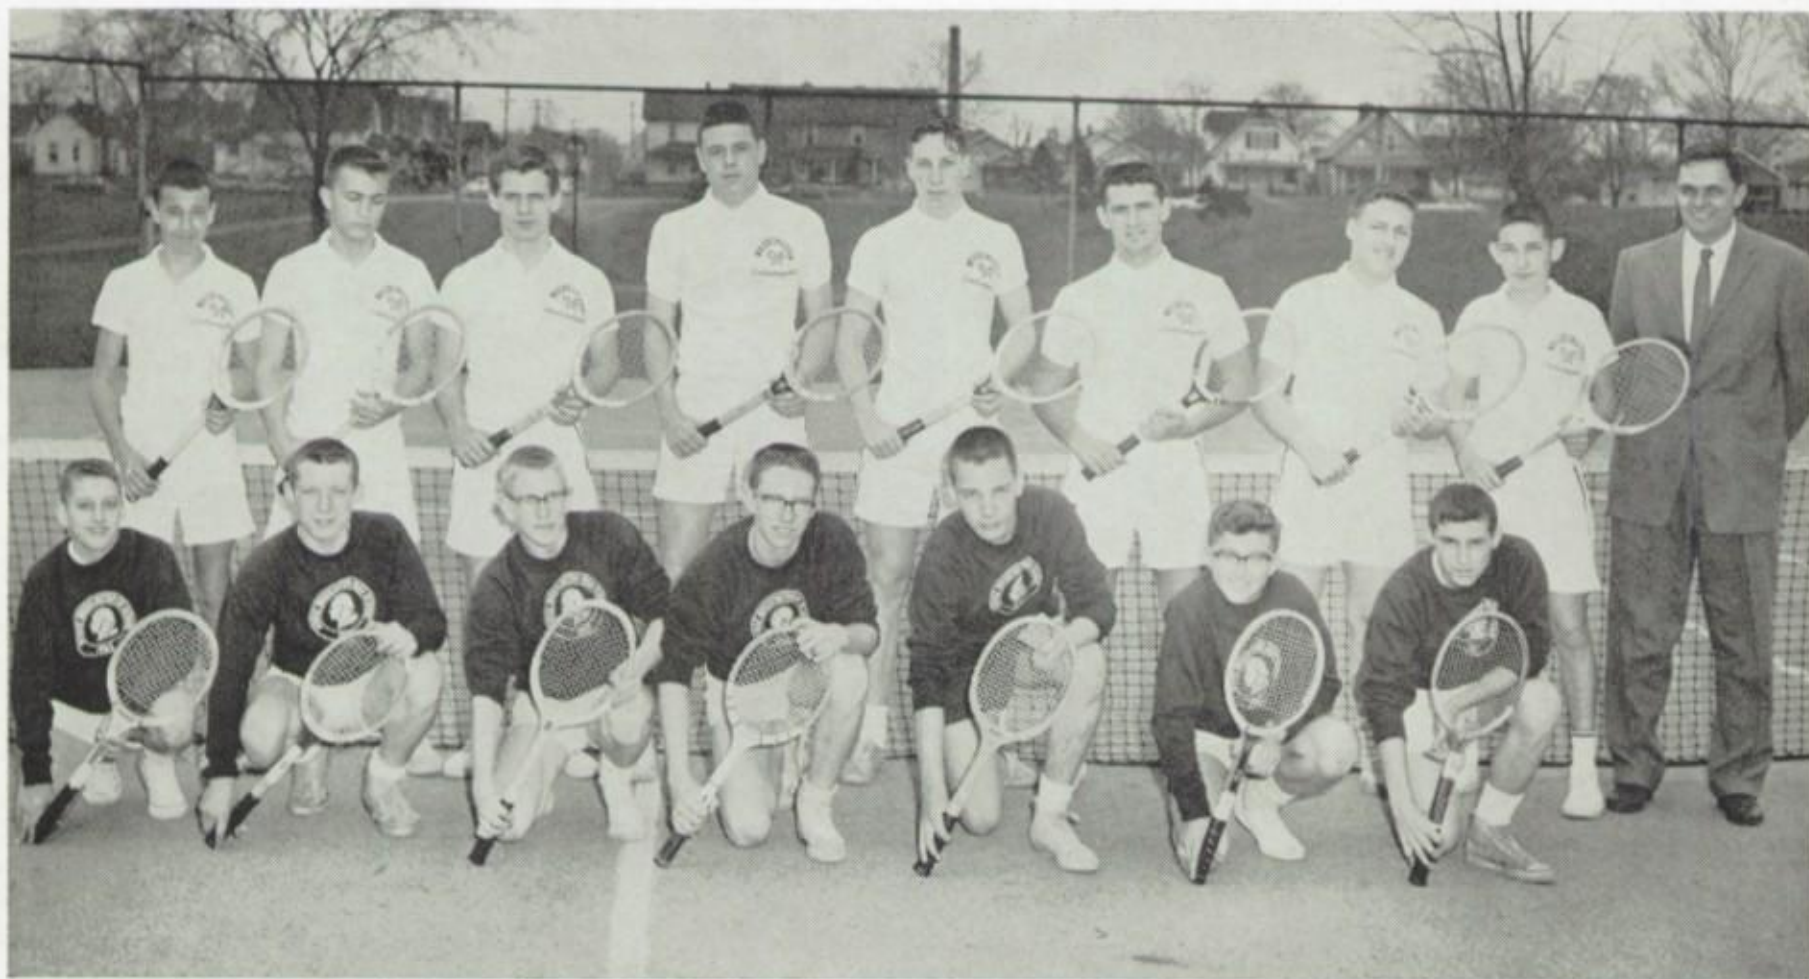

UP AND OVER. High jumper Martin Lomen, clears the bar as he practices for a coming track meet.

In its third year at Washington, tennis is becoming more and more a spectator sport. The boys are realizing the physical as well as the mental effort required in tennis. This year the team's lack of experience caused it to falter. Next year the team will have that extra little boost of experience since this year's team is composed completely of underclassmen. The team is progressing rapidly this year and should look forward to a fine season next year. Although the team had won only one meet when the POST went to press, the boys are gaining valuable experience not only in the tennis but also in the sportsmanship of living. Coach Dixon said, "They are a wonderful bunch of boys and good sports. The boys show the desire and are now gaining valuable experience."

NET BALL! Tom Eisele serves the ball low over the net to trap a slow moving opponent.

Racquetmen strive to give tennis prestige

tin, Leslie Stamm, Clark Dickerson, Robert Komlance; row 2: coach Frank Luzar, John Walters, Samuel Kitchens, Steven Midkiff, Gary Sylvester, Malcolm Marlow, and student manager Gary Leet.

Rookies make up bulk of varsity team;

RHODIUS PARK'S ROGER MARIS? During a practice session, Jerry Sanders hits the ball hard in an attempt to elude a drowsing outfielder.

While experience was the keynote for most of the Washington sports, a lack of it hindered the varsity baseball team. Mr. Luzar, even though no lettermen returned, had a fine group of underclassmen players to work with. Working as a team with a desire to be the best, the boys showed a great deal of ambition and drive as they shaped up to a first class baseball team in time for the opening game of the season. As the POST went to press the team had a 3-3 record and was going strong. The reserve team hampered by much the same situation as the varsity came through just like the other teams, overcame the problems and showed championship form in their opening games. Coach Frank Munshower and his reserve team can be proud of their record for the opening baseball games. Ever improving are both the reserve and varsity teams and both are showing more power as the year goes on.

HE'S SAFE! Tim Giles slides to second base and safety only seconds before Frank Komlance tags his opponent.

CHAMPIONSHIP FORM? Bob Clark and Jim Knobel practice driving before an important meet.

Following a State Championship golf team is no easy task, but if any team in the city can do it, it's Washington. Hopes are high that this year's team will follow closely in the footsteps of the state champs and again this year bring home the state crown. The loss of the senior members of last year's group weakened the team somewhat, but promising underclassmen worked hard for another winning season for Mr. Hine and his team. Jim Knobel and Bob Clark, both members of the state championship team, returned this year with just as good or better form than they showed last year. It is around these two that the team is built. With promising underclassmen talent, such as Charles Crawford, and Pete Clark combined with golfers like Knobel and Clark, it gives a very bright outlook indeed for the 1962 golfing season. As the POST went to press our team was enjoying a string of successful matches and showed no signs of breaking their winning streak.

Linksmen hope to defend state title

COME ON AND YELL! Sandy Dulla, Jane Horner, Sylvia Popcheff, Karen Hessel, Bonnie Dodd, Vicki Wright, Pat Miller, and Mary Parker lead a cheer to support our team on to victory.

Cheerleaders ignite spark of enthusiasm

With the accent on enthusiasm, Continental yell leaders display the best of typical loyalty. The eight-membered squad was chosen in the spring of the year for the succeeding fall season by competition in try-outs. Five of the squad this year represented the varsity team and the other three members comprised the reserve squad who led yells for the reserve basketball games. During the grid season, however, both groups teamed up to lead football fans. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Rosemary Whitehead the group plans and presents pep sessions and special convocations precisely for the purpose of boosting Continental spirit.

CGAA promotes physical education

ALLEY-OOP! Judy Viers and Sandy Cook, members of the CGAA, turn cartwheels with ease.

The Continental Girls' Athletic Association promotes physical education among the girls of Washington High School. They participate in many intramural games such as volleyball, softball, kickball, and basketball. Enthusiastic participation in intramural games instills the desire for the highest recognition among the girls. Along with the skill acquired in gymnastics, the girls learn the principles of sportsmanship, honesty, and integrity. Competition is stiff, but the girls seem to enjoy it. Since the beginning of the year membership has doubled that of the previous year. More and more girls are receiving credit for the amount of points they make. At each meeting, the girls plan the week's activities. Some of the members are destined to become future gym teachers.

In his first year as sponsor, Mr. Ronald Thomas and the men in the block W's initiated many new practices and activities for the Lettermen's Club. Along with their regular duties during basketball season, which includes holding the ropes to keep spectators off the basketball floor, ushering, and other services, the club sponsored an organized cheer block to bolster school spirit and spark enthusiasm. This cheer block activity was continued at tourney time; and, to add a little color and distinctiveness to it, the lettermen sold colonial style "Continental" hats to all students planning to attend the sectionals. This project proved very successful not only for the club treasury but for the spirit and excitement of the sectional. Also this year at the Capers a special talent show was presented and met with great success.

Lettermen bolster school spirit

Profiles of Progress

IN PERSONALITIES

These are our friends—the very people who grow with us as we learn to create the warm, affectionate harmony of lasting companionships.

Awards Day Queen

MARY PARKER

Princesses add elegance to Awards Day

Elegance, splendor, charm—whatever you may call it, the annual Awards Day ceremonies hold a special magic for each and every Continental. This day is devoted to the recognition of outstanding pupils both in scholastics and in outside activities. Awards are presented in three separate convocations: the first for freshmen and sophomores, the second for juniors and seniors, and the last for major awards—especially honoring the seniors with department awards.

Regally reigning over the celebrations are seven senior girls who comprise the Awards Day queen and her court. The girls' official duties are to present the awards to the recipients at all three convocations. During the last convocation the queen is formally crowned in an impressive ceremony which the entire school is invited to attend. The girls are selected from the top third of the senior class and voted on by all the senior members. The names of the twenty-one who receive the highest number of votes are then submitted to the rest of the school for a second ballot in which the final seven are named. All in all, the festivities are a memorable experience for everyone, spectator and participant.

OUTSTANDING CITIZEN. Sherry Selch, outstanding senior girl, was selected DAR Good Citizen.

Each year seniors assume many additional activities that pertain to their own graduation as well as to the efficient running of the school. An activity which is only for freshman and senior girls is the "Big Sister-Little Sister" party sponsored by the Washingtonians. Each freshman girl is assigned a big sister who introduces her into the social life of Washington High. The girls are in the spotlight again as the faculty selects a DAR Good Citizen from among the top girls scholastically. Not to be left out, the senior boys vigorously root at athletic events in a special section designated as the senior cheer block. The first formal dance of the year is sponsored by the seniors in December when a Christmas Carol and Jack Frost reigns. This year's winners were Sandy Marsh and Danny Jaquess. As the second semester rolls around college plans, scholarship awards, job hunting, and cap and gown measurement set the wheels in motion for the June graduation. A busy year is certainly had by all!

Prospective graduates keep active

THE END! Misty-eyed Marcia Shelly receives last minute assistance from a senior sponsor before the commencement ceremonies begin.

DRAMATIC MOMENTS! "One of us is lying!" exclaims Cheryl Christison to bemoaning widow, Karren Genty. "And we both know which one!" she continues, bringing the first act to a climax.

Senior play highlights dramatic efforts

For many four-year students the senior play climaxes the efforts of many semesters' work in the dramatic arts. The play this year was a dramatic comedy which took place within the walls of New York State Superior Court. Although a majority of the cast were seniors, there were a few underclassmen who aided in the production. The senior officers who originate and organize most senior activities, also assisted in the presentation. The play depicted the trial of a girl who is suspected of murdering her employer on "The Night of January 16th." To add to the suspense the testimonies of a gangster, an adamant maid, and the tearful widow only seemed to muddle the jury until the end of the second act. A discovery of a lost corpse sheds light on the real truth and a surprising ending ensues, when a not guilty verdict was returned.

PERRY MASON? As District Attorney Richard Kellem asserts "Objection," Reid Samuels is forced to jump to his own defense during a heated argument.

"SPECIAL - T" WINNERS!

Three parties complicate senior election

RECEPTIVE PARENTS! At the Senior Reception Mrs. Hine, class officers, and other faculty members discussed the cost of the senior year and its varied activities with interested parents.

As autumn leaves fell, so did candidates for senior class offices. The "Special T's" party raked all challengers into a pile and then burned them by capturing every office. But, the campaigning was no easy duty. After the announcement of the slate of candidates by the nominating committee, two parties formed—the "A-OK's" and the "Special T's." Then a dissatisfied group broke away and formed a third party—the "Independent Bullmoose Party." For the first time in GWHS history three parties ruled the senior elections. Campaigning never lacked enthusiasm. Presidential candidates Denny Troth, "A-OK's" and "Bullmoose;" and Joe Purichia, "Special T's" organized their parties, and senior sympathies split along these party lines. After many rallies in roll call and the final presentation of the candidates, tense seniors went to the polls to cast their ballots. The election ended as Beverly Carpender bounded from the office and announced, "We (the "Special T's") won every office!"

Top scholars lead class competition

Education without competition would become dull and boring. At Washington pupils' final marks are computed by the Math Department to make up the official class standings. Therefore, an incentive is added to the routine efforts of pupils. This year the class of 1962 is proud to announce its outstanding competitors: valedictorian, Frank Starkey and salutatorian, Sherry Selch. Frank has led the class since his freshman year. Sherry and Beverly Carpenter have frequently changed positions; however,

Sherry has kept a tight hold on second place during the senior year. Frank and Sherry have won very impressive scholarships for future education. Frank received a full tuition, room and board scholarship for his excellent high school record and scores on qualifying tests to Wabash College. Sherry was named Lilly Scholarship winner and received $1,000. Valparaiso, the college of her choice, then honored her with a $2,000 scholarship and offered her job opportunities amounting to about $100 a semester.

WON'T IT BE GRAND? Valedictorian Frank Starkey and salutatorian Sherry Selch show principal Mr. Cloyd J. Julian campus bulletins for their prospective schools.

DISTINCT CHANGE! Blouse styles create many discussions this year as Betty Eadens, Janice Nash, Diane Yovanovich, and Linda Jeter gather at a locker.

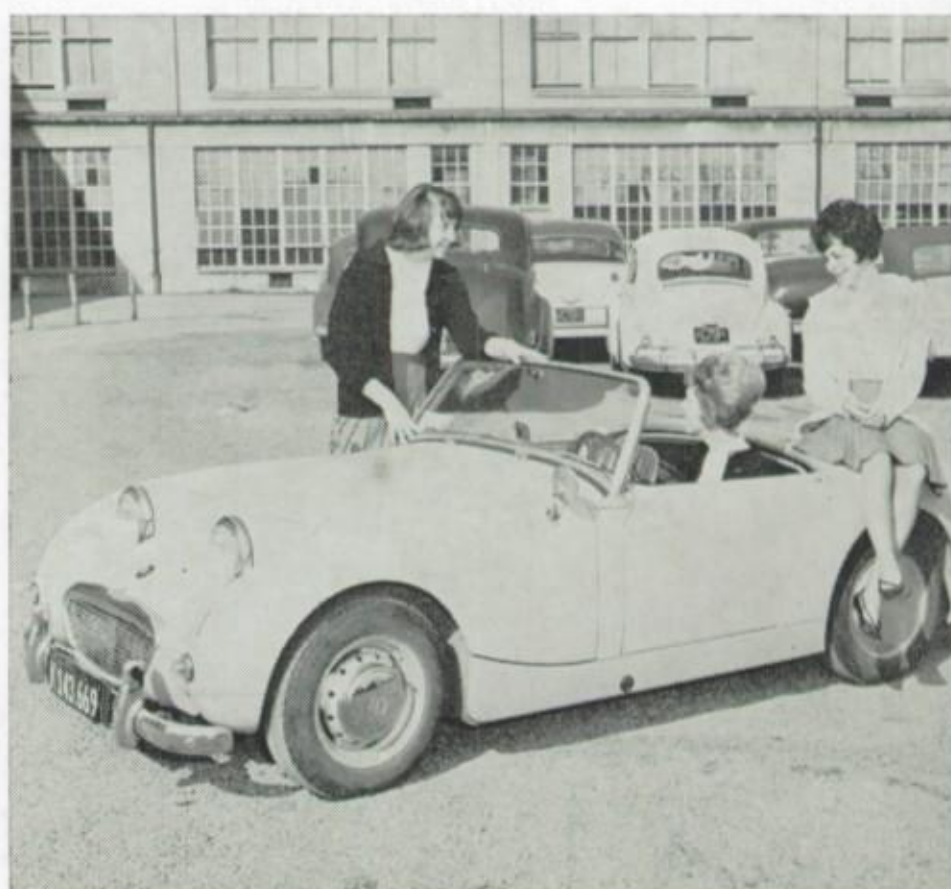

STAIRWAY TO STYLES! Junior gals, Emilie Parsons, Cheryl Swarts, Donna Baldwin, Helen Lucas, and Reba Koch, display latest shoe and purse fads as they descend the stairs with the newest styles.

HEADWAY TO FASHION! Junior girls Lee Ann Bainaka, Jo Ann Campbell, and Joyce Lollar show off their outstanding hairstyles of 1962.

Fads build social scenes

Fads, though only temporary customs, can play a big part in building the kind of social scene at school that reflects an alert student body. Through the halls of Washington one can see the current styles of hair and of clothing displayed in various fashions suited to each individual's own personality. This year the bubble, bouffant, and beehive "made the scene" as we danced to the Twist, Continental, and even stomped a few times. While skirts grew shorter, blouses grew longer and the styles were named for people currently in the limelight—"Dear Liz" and "Ben Casey." Something else that grew were the purses, reaching a new depth of delightfulness with their suitcase-like appearances. Shoes went all-out in varied color and design. One pair of shoes might have three shades of brown on one side while the other side differed with a plain beige color. Certainly the keyword for this year's fashion seasons were difference with a capital D!

HIGH PRESSURE TACTICS. John Koon, Craig Johnson, and Shirley Morris sharpen their salesmanship techniques in selling their Junior Achievement products to Mr. Robert McConnell.

GLENN'S IN ORBIT! Carolyn Buckner, Gary McFall, Myra Kerr, Louis Dimitroff, and Gloria Bradford scan several magazine articles about John Glenn's historic three-orbital flight on February 20.

Third-year pupils find varied interests

CURTAIN UP! Junior Class Officers, Sue Douglass, Vice-president; Jane Horner, secretary; Clark Dickerson, president; Karen, Hessel, treasurer; Bill Richardson and Jerry Fultz, Sgts.-at-Arms place scenery for the Junior Vaudeville.

WHAT'S HEAVEN LIKE? Members of the prom committee, who must construct a heaven in the boys' gym, listening intently to Mr. Badgley are Clark Dickerson, Karen Hessel, Jane Horner, Barbara Richwine, Sue Douglass, and Barbara Cory.

The highlight of the Juniors' social season was the Junior Prom. "Heaven on Earth" was the theme of the dance this year. Decorations consisted of a false ceiling and entranceway, twinkling stars, and old-fashioned dance programs. The melodious tones of Nick Craig's dance band added a finishing touch of elegance to this event. A new innovation this year was the reserved tables for couples who desired to be with certain groups at the Prom. The refreshments, decorations, and the king and queen committees devoted all their time and energy to the planning and carrying out of the semi-formal Prom. The Prom was the end product of the whole class's efforts to sponsor a spectacular dance that would make their junior year a pleasant and lasting memory for years to come.

The Continentalaires, working together, brighten the sounds of music. Their beautiful rendition of popular songs and hymns have gained them praise and fame throughout the city. The Continentalaires not only participate in many of the school musical convocations, but they also take part in activities outside of school. Under the direction of Mr. Charles Thatcher, the Continentalaires perform with enthusiasm to captivate their audience. Their performances at the Continental Capers and the Big Sister-Little Sister Party were just two of the events in which they took part throughout the year. Highlighting the events of the year, the Continentalaires traveled to Kokomo at an invitation to sing for the public schools.

CHORUS ACCOMPANIST. Mrs. Edna Long, music department accompanist, aids the Colonial Chorus and Girls' Concert Club performances.

Personalities mold the Continentalaires

JOYFUL SONG! Members of the Continentalaires include Bill Lanker, Sharon Ramos, Phil Myers, Sylvia Kenny, Walter King, Gloria Lanker, Joe Purichia, Karen Genty, Kent Obergfell, Margret Williams, Reid Samuels, Delores Eller, Joe Mitchell, Rita Robertson, Jerry Sadler, Judy Jeffras, Teddy Jaquess, and Marsha Brown.

One of the biggest annual events at Washington is the Continental Capers. This year the entire evening revolved around the theme, "Springtime in Paris." The corridors of the building were transformed into picturesque Parisienne avenues and the various rooms boasted of French titles. Even the mothers got into the act as all workers that evening wore French berets to create a more authentic atmosphere. Continentals, as always, enjoyed the antics of the faculty in their roles of French beatniks and cafe entertainers. The "Monte Carlo" game room provided variety and laughter in between the remaining student shows and letterman shows. Climaxing the events Pierre and Cheri, king and queen of the popularity contest, were crowned in the closing minutes of the evening.

VIVENT LES ARISTOCRATES! Alan Derringer and Maxine Kennedy smile with pride after being selected king and queen of the '62 Continental Capers.

Profiles of Progress

IN MATURITY

Even though we reluctantly see the close of a chapter of our lives, we look toward the future confident that the progress of the past four years is merely a profile of the progress to come.
